Approach

I use a functional approach to comment on a person's capacity for work and their earnings potential.

Matching a person's functional abilities and limitations to the demands of specific jobs enables me to identify suitable occupations.

This functional approach forms the core of my argument about what type of work a Claimant can and cannot do.

In turn, this approach enables me to present an evidence-based opinion about the Claimant's earnings potential, based on their capacity for work.

I prepare reports for Claimants, Defendants and as a single joint expert.

Profile

I am an Employment Expert, Vocational Consultant & Functional Evaluator

▸ EMPLOYMENT EXPERT

I have been preparing Expert Employment and Earnings Reports since 2016 for personal injury, medical negligence and family law cases.

My expertise is to provide reports for the Court, commenting on a Claimant's capacity for work and their career & earnings trajectory but for the index event and now.

The cases I work on involve Claimants from a variety of backgrounds (military personnel, NHS staff, Civil Service employees, teachers, high-income professionals, the self-employed, children/adolescents, students, deceased individuals and many more).

▸ CONSULTANT (VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION)

Working with Case Managers and their serious injury clients, I have been delivering professional Vocational Rehabilitation services since 1996.

I help people with injuries and long-term disabilities to identify functionally suitable occupations based on their transferable skills and personal interests.

I prepare bespoke return to work plans and vocational case management solutions.
