Teaching Experience

I became a GP trainer in Oct 2018. I had been involved in supervising and teaching ANPs, GP trainees, medical students, and UCPs. In my current GP role, I help to support and supervise junior doctors within the practice.

Personal Interests and Other Skills

I obtained my private pilot's licence on a Cessna 177RG in 2010. This type of aircraft places a particularly heavy workload on the pilot, requiring concentration, co-ordination and the ability to stay calm under pressure.

A career in General Practice involves long hours and frequent stressful periods. To stay fit, I enjoy running and hiking. I had previously completed a climb up Gran Paradiso (Italy). This was particularly challenging given the high altitude and snow. I also completed the Bath Half Marathon.
